Mission Statement:

St. Landry Catholic Church is a community of the faithful that serves God and our neighbors by coming to know and love more deeply Our Lord and Savior, Jesus Christ. This is accomplished through the study of Sacred Scripture and by practicing the traditions handed down to us, especially the seven sacraments. By the help of Jesus' Grace, we seek to imitate Him in His faith, hope and charity so that we can receive His gift of salvation in eternal life.

From the Desk of Msgr. Harrington...

What if the older son in Jesus' parable of the prodigal son kept a journal?

My younger brother took something that was not his to take. How could he have been so foolish, so cruel to the man who gave us everything? How could he be so cruel to me? Why was he so unhappy with us that he couldn't wait to get away from here, he couldn't wait to get away from us? What made him think that he even had an inheritance? What a mean and selfish boy pretending to be a man! He took my inheritance and wasted it all. He broke our father's heart and wished us both dead so he could take all the money and throw it to the pigs. I will never forgive him. I can never forgive him.

And yet, that is what my father asks of me. While I'm working away in the field, doing my job, trying to once again make the money to replenish what my brother has wasted, my father wants me to join the celebration. While out in the field doing what I'm supposed to be doing – always the responsible one – he wants me to forgive this son of his. He begs me to go into the house and forgive, pretend that nothing is wrong, whitewash my brother's sin. Forget all the hurt he has brought to the people who loved him most. I can't do it. I won't do it. I stand paralyzed before my father with rage.

I am angry with my brother. He was always so needy, so demanding. Nothing was ever good enough for him. We were never good enough for him. The world revolved around what he wanted, what he demanded, what he thought was his rightful due. His entitlement disgusted me. How many times I had to rescue him? How many times I had to cover for his mistakes? How many times I had to do his chores?

I am angry with my father for being so quick with his mercy and his embraces. He gives away his ring, his finest robe, his sandals, his love. The fatted calf is slaughtered for the son who spit in his face. He expects me to turn the blind eye on the one who returns in shame. I can't do it. He doesn't deserve it. He deserves to be punished, to be rejected, to be thrown off the land and exiled back to that land that he was in such a hurry to run to in the first place. He should be cast out and forgotten. His name should be stricken from our hearts.

I am angry with myself. I am angry with myself because my heart is so small. My father forces me to see what I do not want to see. This loathsome man I want to make a stranger is my brother. He is my flesh and blood. He is the one who looked up into my face and smiled when my mother made me hold him. He was so small, so vulnerable. He was just a baby. He was the one who wrapped his tiny fingers around my finger and stole my heart. I swore I would love him forever. I swore I would be his big brother forever. I am angry because my father's goodness reminds me of my oath. My father's love reminds me how he sees my younger brother. He sees my brother as his own, as his other self. He could no more turn away from my brother than he could remove his own heart.

I know I am free to forgive my brother. I also know that I will be able to do this seemingly impossible task. I can only do this because my father shows me how to do it. He teaches me how to forgive. He teaches me how to love unconditionally, completely without restraint. My father teaches me how to see his children as he sees them; as his own, as his other self. I can see what it means to my father to have his very 'self' returned to his embrace. I can learn this as well as I learned to work the fields. I can learn this because it not only brings life to my little brother, but it brings life to me. To forgive another empowers me to accept the forgiveness of my father and allows me to forgive myself.

I am always with my father, and he is always with me.

READINGS FOR FAITH SHARING

Twenty-second Sunday in Ordinary Time

Sir 3:17-18,20, 28-29 Ancient wisdom insists that the more humble we are, the greater we are.

Psalm 68 “God, in your goodness, You have made a home for the poor.”

Hebrews 12: 18-19 Far from frightening, our encounter with God will be like a glorious holiday.

Luke 14: 1, 7-14 Jesus presents his own version of table manners.

True humility requires that we acknowledge our weaknesses, our imperfections, our humanness. We are not more important than our neighbor. Sirach offers this as a lesson to guide the listener. Jesus tries to teach this to the Pharisees in the Gospel we hear today. Humility begets generosity, as it recognizes the value in our neighbor, especially those who are put down. True generosity is shown when giving to those who cannot repay.

ONLINE CATECHESIS

The Diocese of Lafayette has partnered with Franciscan University in Steubenville, Ohio, to give everyone in the diocese access to workshops that can help in their religious formation. Although some of the workshops are geared towards teachers, many simply give information on topics that many of us want to know more about (i.e. the Eucharist, Mary, New Testament, Old Testament). All you have to do is go to www.franciscanathome.com/diolaf to begin to create your account. The Office of Catechetics has a short 3 minute video on their webpage that will direct you on how to create an account. Our parish (or institution) has already been placed in the system, so all you have to do is create your personal account.

PRAYER FOR HURRICANE SEASON

O God, Master of this passing world, hear the humble voices of your children. The Sea of Galilee obeyed your order and returned to its former quietude; you are still the Master of land and sea. We live in the shadow of a danger over which we have no control. The Gulf, like a provoked and angry giant, can awake from its seeming lethargy, overstep its conventional boundaries, invade our land and spread chaos and disaster. During this hurricane season, we turn to You, O loving Father. Spare us from past tragedies whose memories are still so vivid and whose wounds seem to refuse to heal with the passing of time. O Virgin, Star of the Sea, Our Beloved Mother, we ask you to plead with your Son in our behalf, so that spared from the calamities common to this area and animated with a true spirit of gratitude, we will walk in the footsteps of your Divine Son to reach the heavenly Jerusalem where a storm-less eternity awaits us.
