Mission Statement:

St. Landry Catholic Church is a community of the faithful that serves God and our neighbors by coming to know and love more deeply Our Lord and Savior, Jesus Christ. This is accomplished through the study of Sacred Scripture and by practicing the traditions handed down to us, especially the seven sacraments. By the help of Jesus' Grace, we seek to imitate Him in His faith, hope and charity so that we can receive His gift of salvation in eternal life.

Volume 68, No. 17 – Second Sunday of Easter – April 28, 2019

From the Desk of Msgr. Harrington...

What was it like to be in the upper room after the death of Jesus? What scale can be used to measure the fear and anxiety that must have infested that room?

Was it the same room where Jesus broke bread and shared wine with His friends on the night before He died? Was this where He changed that bread and wine into His body and blood? Is this where He washed their feet and asked of them to do the same for one another? Is this the last place where Judas felt a part of the family of Jesus' followers before he was sent off to do what he had to do?

The disciples must have worried that they were next to die. Surely the Romans or the Sanhedrin would discover them, condemn them, torture them, put them to death like the master. Surely there were spies shadowing the streets of Jerusalem, hoping they would receive a great reward for locating the disciples of the Nazarene. Now that Jesus was dead, there had to be many who plotted to bring an end to the lives of these followers, nip this radical religion in the bud; kill them all before Jesus would become a martyr for the cause.

Every overheard whisper from the street below, every creak of the floor, every gust of ill wind must have brought panic and dread to these mourners who could not believe how things had turned out. What went wrong? Why had Jesus died and left them? Where was Jesus' Father when He needed Him most? Where were they when He needed them most? What was their future? They had no future. There was nothing left for them; no hope, no faith, no love.

The mother of Jesus must have been there in that upper room. How could she console them? How wearisome it must have been for her to bring some comfort to these tortured souls when she herself was mourning the loss of her only son. What a beacon of faith she must have been even in the midst of the paralyzing terror that descended upon her children. For they were her children. The moment Jesus gave John to her at the foot of the cross, all of them became her children. It must have broken her heart again to see them so lost, so frightened, so broken, so quick to forget her son.

And then Jesus appears before them in His resurrected body bearing the gift of peace. This was no ordinary peace. It was and is a transforming peace. It is the coolness of the mountain spring filling the parched vessel of a frightened soul. It is the embrace of a long-lost child reconciled with a waiting parent. It is the unrestrained joy of the shepherd when the beloved lost sheep is found. He places it on his own shoulders and dances in the wind. It is the kiss of God on a bruised and fractured heart. It is the peace of Jesus.

As He places an arm with a scarred hand over our shoulder, He whispers this peace to our troubled depths and stills the churning waters, "...shhh, my child, I'm with you in darkness and light, in joy and sorrow, in death and life. Nothing can harm you, nothing can destroy you. I claim you as my own; to be silent with you, to talk with you, to sing with you, to weep with you, to laugh with you, to listen with you and to shout with you. Together we are one. Always. My peace I bring to you. My peace I give you."

With His gift of peace, Jesus changes the bread and wine of upper-room-fear into His Body and Blood, the Church. He then sends us to share that transforming peace with one another. Peace be with you.

READINGS FOR FAITH SHARING

Second Sunday of Easter

Acts 5:12-16

Peter's faith in Jesus enables him to work signs and wonders.

Psalm 118

"Give thanks to the Lord for he is good, His love is everlasting."

Rev 1:9-11A, 12-13, 17-19

He is the first and the last, the one who lives.

John 20:19-31

How blessed are those who have not seen but have believed.

In today's Gospel, Jesus commissions the disciples, sending them out as his Father had sent him. We see the fruits of their work in the first reading. The sick are cured, demons are driven out, sins are forgiven, great numbers come to believe. Today's Church can be traced all the way back to this early band of believers, impelled out of the locked room and into the streets of Jerusalem. Where can we bear fruit today?
